We are excited to present the third installment of our announced live releases. This release features a concert recorded on November 9, 2019, at the Gdańsk Shakespeare Theatre during the Interference audiovisual communications festival. The album "Hospodi," which has received praise for its polished production, excellent songwriting, and captivating atmosphere, has also faced criticism for its commercialism and ability to attract an international audience.

One thing is certain: the album, released in July 2019, came at a challenging time for the band, coinciding with a media dispute that significantly harmed the label's reputation and colored perceptions of the music amidst the conflict. Today, we revisit the November concert, which marked the last performance in the band's "Hospodi" era.

The album was mixed and mastered by Wojtek Wiesławski in September 2025.
The cover features icons created by Piotr Piasecki, while the graphic design was done by the dedicated Diana Sawicka from What the Moon Brings.
Event photos were taken by Wojciech Miklaszewski.

The release date is set for December 19th, and it will be available at the band's concerts in December.
Please note that all pre-orders will be autographed by the band!
